Northfield Man Chosen Vice-Prest. Of County Teachers

At the 45th annual meeting of the Franklin County Teachers' Association held at the High School in Greenfield last Friday, Supt. Linville W. Robbins of Northfield was elected first vice-president. Some 600 teachers, principals, superintendents and members of school committees were in attendance.

Mrs. Anna J. Biddle, principal of Deerfield grammar school, was elected president. Other officers are: Principal Dwight S. Davis, second vice-president; George Wrightson, Turners Falls, treasurer; Miss Mildred M. Hartwell, Greenfield, secretary; Supt. Frederick W. Porter, Greenfield; Principal Hiram F. Battey, South Deerfield and Principal George A. J. Froberger, Shelburne Falls, executive committee. The nominating committee consisted of Principal Edgar Burr Smith of Greenfield, Miss Evelyn G. Lawley of Northfield and Supt. Joseph S. Keating of Turners Falls. President Burke opened the general meeting and Rev. Frederick Addison of Turners Falls conducted devotions. Reports of delegates to the Massachusetts Teachers' federation and the National Education association were given by Supt. Frank P. Davison of Shelburne Falls and Miss Winifred Curtis of Greenfield, respectively.

Principal speakers of the morning were Arthur F. Sheldon, founder of Sheldonian institute, who talked on "Human Engineering as a Factor in Character Education," and Prof. David D. Vaughan of Boston university, whose subject was "The Challenge of a New Day." An opportunity for discussion followed the address by Mr. Sheldon. A business meeting for election of officers and reports of various committees, and a musical program by the Turners Falls high school orchestra, under the direction of Charles M. Bickford concluded the general program.

The convention closed with 11 departmental conferences on subjects of interest to grade school teachers, junior and high school teachers, and teachers of one-room schools, and those faced with special and vocational problems. Superintendents and school committee members also had an opportunity to hear Frank W. Wright, deputy commissioner of education, who spoke on "The effect of the general school fund on the distribution of the income tax among the towns and cities of the state."

An exhibition of drawing and art work from different schools in the county was on view in the library. The woodworking, metal and printing shops, home economics, laboratory and art cottage of the local school system were open to visiting delegates.

Town Meeting Called On Election Day

A warrant for a special town meeting to be held on Tuesday, November 8th at two o'clock at Town Hall has been issued and posted in the usual places.

It is proposed to rescind the votes taken at the special town meeting of April 26, which transferred sums from the library fund and the school fund to the welfare department. This transfer, as explained at that time, was for the purpose of paying for certain wood provided for the schools and the library by the welfare department.

It now devolves, according to officials, that the vote of the town was an unnecessary complication in this matter and the town is asked to rescind the vote. Article 4 of the warrant is to transfer the sum of $1,000 from the surplus fund to the reserve fund. It is said by officials that this sum is needed by various departments to meet unusual demands and that the money is to be transferred in order to make it available for such needs. The town meeting will be held at 2 p.m. The polls will be open to voters from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

ception to three hundred guests at the Chateau of the Northfield Hotel in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Speer of New York, Miss Mira B. Wilson, principal of the Northfield Seminary, and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Speer.

Mr. Albert E. Roberts, executive secretary acted as chairman of the arrangements. Among the guests were the trustees, alumnæ and alumni counsellors from Mount Hermon School and the Northfield Seminary, together with the faculty of both schools and friends. Music was furnished by members of the student body from both schools under the direction of Carlton W. L'Hommedieu of Mount Hermon. Refreshments were served by the seniors.

Those assisting in ushering were: Ambert G. Moody, Richard L. Watson, Roy R. Hatch, Dorothy Wells, Miss Wells, Miss Fuller, Harriett Howard, Miss Hubner, John Norton, Ernest N. Kirmann, Gordon Pyper, Harry A. Erickson, and Elliott Fleckles.

Mr. Speer was for five years president of The Northfield Schools before accepting the new position at Mount Hermon School this fall. He succeeds Dr. Henry F. Cutler, who for 42 years was principal, and has now retired as Principal Emeritus.

Mr. Fry was elected President of the Northfield Schools last June. He is a graduate of Mount Hermon in the class of 1896. After leaving school he entered Y. M. C. A. work and later, business, rising to become leader of one of the greatest advertising companies in the country. He has always retained close association with Mount Hermon, as well as with many other educational and service organizations.

The fall meeting of the Board of Trustees took place Saturday morning in Holbrook Hall, Mount Hermon, with Mr. Fry presiding. Other officers present were Stephen Baker, New York City, and John L. Grandin, Boston, vice-presidents; Elliott Speer, Headmaster of Mount Hermon School, chairman of the administrative committee; Edwin M. Bulkeley, New York City, treasurer; and Ambert G. Koepke, New York City; Albert C. Merriam,

10.30 o'clock. President Wilfred W. Fry presided. Dr. Robert E. Speer, father of Elliott Speer and for many years chairman of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, gave the installation sermon. Dr. Speer has been associated with the Northfield Schools almost since their founding by Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist and educator. In making the installation speech to headmaster Elliott Speer President Fry made the following speech:—

"As president of the Board of Trustees of the Northfield Schools, it is my pleasant duty to formally install you into the office to which you have been unanimously elected.

"As we gather today to publicly confer upon you the highest honor our school can bestow, we are reminded that, while not an alumnus of Mount Hermon, you are in very truth a son of Northfield—for it was not in this lovely valley, with its noble river and sheltering hills, amid influences engendered by Dwight L. Moody, mighty man of spiritual valor, that the heart of your gifted father first found sanctuary in the love of your wonderful mother, and that rare partnership began—the blessed influences of which have been felt in the far corners of the earth? And have you not, by reason of your birth, your training, your experiences and your choices made those ideals and principles which are the motivating forces of this great school your own?"

"From this day forth you will be to your Trustees, Faculty, Alumni and most of all to your students, the living embodiment of that priceless heritage of any institution—a great tradition—more than that, you will be the chief exemplar and interpreter to successive student generations—as they tread this campus and gather in these halls—of Him for love of whom this school was founded and in whose name life and devotion have been given to the uttermost.

"In pursuit of fancy, perhaps, which I hope may establish a custom, I desire this morning to hand you this key—as a symbol of the office to which you have been chosen. It is the key to Ford Cottage—gift to the school by former students as Headmaster's residence. I pass it to you—the fourth Headmaster of Mount Hermon across her fifty-two years history, and the second to occupy this house.

"While I regret that you will not find it a key to Heaven, speaking in behalf of the Trustees, the Faculty, the Alumni and, so far as one may venture to speak for such a body, the students also, I assure you that it is the key to our hearts, as well as to your home, and when rightly used will open to you whatever treasures of love, sympathy and co-operation are ours to give you, sir, and pronounce you Headmaster of Mount Hermon School."

Penn and Webster Stamps Received

The Northfield and East Northfield Postoffices have received their first allotment of the William Penn and Daniel Webster three-cent stamps which are now on sale. Both retain the customary color of three-cent stamps with the likeness of both men on the face.

Contributing $5.00
Sustaining $10.00
Supporting $25.00

While it is realized that this is a very hard year for everyone, we must consider the ones who are more needy than ourselves. Posters will be placed in the stores and public buildings, and window stickers and buttons, etc., will be given out by the workers. If every member of a family or building joins a 100% sticker is also given and it is hoped that the committee might be able to give out a large number of such stickers. Everyone knows the good work that the Red Cross has done and will do but it cannot carry on its work if we fail to do our part.

Bertha D. Leach

High School Student Hit By Auto; Walking On Highway

Last Thursday evening shortly after ten o'clock four young ladies, students of our local High School were walking toward home on Main Street after attending a student's social affair in Town Hall. The night was dark and foggy. The autoist immediately stopped and with the assistance of her friends, Miss Ligniski was carried to the home of Rev. Mr. Coe and Dr. Wright was summoned. More Demands For Farms

Paul Berton, commissioner of the Federal Farm Loan Board, is authority for the statement that according to reports of the 12 Federal Land Banks there is a greatly increased demand for farms throughout the country. The sale of approximately $1,500,000 of farm properties during August this year compared to $814,000 worth of such properties sold in August 1931 is considered noteworthy by Mr. Berton.

Some of the Land Bank presidents report for the first time in years an eager demand for farms in their respective territories. This expresses itself in actual bidding up of properties for sale.

Memorials are built today
That cost cool millions away
Vast sums which could be so well
Spent

On people rather than cement;
But men are blind to all potents
And keep on building monuments.

Alfred E. Smith in a speech in Providence in 1930 referring to the depression and unemployment said:

"I do not, and I do not believe any leader of the Democratic party of this country, blames the Republican party for this condition. Thanks be to God we have too much grit and too much sense to blame any political party for this condition."

This statement of Governor Smith is respectfully, but firmly commended to the careful consideration of Governor Roosevelt.

If you asked the next hundred persons you meet this question: "What is the purpose of life insurance?" ninety-odd of them would probably answer that it is to protect dependents in the event of the death of the family wage earner.

That, as a matter of fact, is the obvious answer, and the wrong one. Life insurance does that, of course, but it does a great deal more. It protects us by who take it out and pay for it—by affording a gilt-edged, paying investment. It is as safe a haven for savings as exists on this earth, and it is an unequalled means of building up estates.

More life insurance money goes to living policyholders than to the heirs of dead ones. Remember that the next time you think of life insurance and you'll be better able to really appreciate it.

The custom of lighting new fires from old has for more than 100 years been a tradition of those who furnish New York City's illuminating gas. In each new plant the fire which burns continually, is lit with coals from an older fire. The original fire, kindled more than a century ago, is still burning.

Here at Northfield, too, a fire has been handed down. It was lit over 50 years ago by D. L. Moody. He laid his fire on the broad hearth of understanding. His fuel was a well founded belief, a simple faith, a great love. He lit the fire with the spark of enthusiasm.

Some still active in the work at Northfield received the torch directly from Mr. Moody's hand, and they in turn have kindled many new fires. Each year, go forth from the Northfield Schools, young men and young women who have spent four of the most important years of their lives in touch with this living fire. All of them feel the glow. Many carry the torch to the ends of the earth in happy, unselfish, useful lives.

R.

All of us have heard many political speeches during these past few weeks and during the next few days we shall all hear more—as a prelude to the general election on Tuesday, November 8th when the citizens will cast their ballots for their choice of a National President and Vice-President as well as for state officers. Thus far from all the information gained we are led to believe that the air is full of abuse, bias, prejudice and misrepresentation. The "outs" want to be the "ins" and the "ins" want to stay. "Promises" are easy and alluring but "experience" justifies a holding fast to those ideals which are leading in the steady course of recovery for the nation from the disastrous depression.

People's Forum

To a member of the Republican Town Committee:

You and your friends gave me generous support in my primary campaign for the Governor's Council, and I want to remind you how necessary it is that we continue fighting for the success of the Republican party this fall.

I want especially to call your attention to the campaign of WILLIAM STERLING YOUNGMAN for Governor. Mr. Youngman is the type of man we need to succeed the Democratic incumbent. Mr. Youngman has had years of actual experience in practically all branches of the State Government. He is honest. He is not afraid to act when action is necessary.

His courage in the present campaign against malicious propaganda and tremendous odds, makes it imperative that we vote for him—get our friends to vote for him—and thus insure his election.

Sincerely
Whitfield Reid

To the Editor:

Herewith is a simplified explanation of the three Referenda on the ballot of November 8th.

1. QUESTION: Shall the practice of Chiropractic have a separate board of registration apart from the single board which now registers doctors and osteopaths to practice in this Commonwealth?

In Favor: Chiropractors do not practice medicine. A separate board is now allowed them in 40 states, and even now in Massachusetts many treatments are annually performed without ill effects. Furthermore, there are sufficient safeguards in the bill to protect the public.

Against: The United States Supreme Court and the Massachusetts Supreme Court state that the practice of Chiropractic is the practice of medicine. If that is so, then they should not have a separate board. There are 48 medical colleges in the U. S. which might each demand a separate board. No class A medical school teaches Chiropractic and the number of Chiropractic schools in the U. S. has decreased from 79 to 21 in 10 years. Furthermore, the present bill would allow men now practicing Chiropractic to continue to do so without any examination if they have practiced a year in Massachusetts. The question is one of protection of the public.

Both branches of Legislature voted on this bill this year. If in favor vote "Yes." Opposed "No."

A Citizen

To the Editor:

A candidate that is running for public office has many matters brought to his attention by the voters of his district and I find that many are not too well satisfied with the service they are now receiving from the present incumbent.

I also find that a person can serve too long in public service and become useless, as time goes on for the service that they render. A little check on a few of the bills, which I find by hurriedly going through the Senate Manual maybe of interest to the voters of this district.

Records show that my opponent did not vote in the interest of labor. Out of twelve bills which were of interest to labor in different forms, he voted against ten.

Records show that he did not vote in the best interest of the Dairy Farmers when he voted for Chapter 505 known as the Milk Bill in its present form, in spite of the fact that those words plainly appeared, "Provided, that no such certificate shall be required for the production or sale of cream." The Dairy Farmers is unable to produce cream in competition with out-of-state competition. The vote shows gross negligence, or, working in the interest of the sale and distribution corporations.

Records show that he did not vote in the interest of the Police and Firemen when he voted against Senate Bill No. 39, an act authorizing the City of Boston to pay an annuity to, or for the benefit of the widow or for the benefit of the children of Frank J. Comeau. This policeman was shot to death in attempting to capture a burglar, in performance of his duty. This policeman left a wife and children.

Under date of January 19, 1932 the Senate voted to pay my opponent $42.00 back mileage having voted to increase the mileage distance from Boston to Buckland to read 125 miles instead of 115 miles, the actual distance being 118 miles. Although the Senator had held office but nineteen days before this discrepancy in mileage was discovered, I can quite figure out the inaccuracy of the figures.

Records show that he did not vote in the interest of the poor people of the Commonwealth when he voted against striking out the word, "pauper" in House Bill No. 1368. Had this bill not been voted persons now receiving aid from the town of public welfare, would not be entitled to a vote. Many a man today is compelled to ask for aid through no fault of his own. Fortunately he voted with the minority. Can any good thinking person living under the Constitution of the United States favor taking advantage of those less fortunate, as to be compelled to ask aid, that they should be deprived of voting.

In these times of depression we need leadership, and if elected I will render the same, plus service.

I solicit and will appreciate your support at the polls on election day.

A Personal Tribute To The Rev. Mr. Rees

Dr. Milton S. Rees came to Gorham, our last parish in Maine, about two years ago, for a union campaign with the Methodist and Congregational churches. Gorham being a residential town, with almost all Old New England stock, it soon became apparent that he was just the man for the work.

The methods used by this evangelist are of a kind to appeal to any thoughtful person. It is no wonder that the students of Gorham Normal took such an active part in the services. They also took a decided stand for the cause he presented. Teachers and scholars were united in new loyalties, so that when he had left the community the good work went on in the churches and schools.

He is a great friend of the children. They know him immediately as their friend. My children are quite enthusiastic about his coming to Northfield.

I have never known the spirit of a community so much elevated by evangelism as was the case in Gorham. Wherever he has worked the people of town and country have lived in great numbers to attend his services.

All the result cards of the campaign in Gorham passed through my hands, and I could tell a most glowing story about the wonderful work that was done there.

I cannot recommend too highly the work of Dr. and Mrs. Rees. Their coming will be a great blessing to our community and to great numbers from other communities who will attend these services.

SONG OF THE YEARS

The years have sung a lovely song
Since life first brought you close
To me,
Together we have swept aside
Bright veil on veil mystery.

Together we've adventured far,
Exploring books and land and sea.
And always I've been glad of you
And always you've been glad of me.

Gay comrades of the day and night
With minds and hearts and souls
Even had love not shed this light
What splendid friends we should have been!

A GUEST AT THE TREES' PARTY

My mother entertained the "Club"
Some ladies very fine,
She told me to run out of doors,
And have a happy time.

Our garden is all brown and dry
The leaves have fallen down,
But close beside the old stone wall,
One marigold I found.

I can't play games all by myself,
And I felt so alone,
I curled down on a wooden bench,
Right where the warm sun shone.

Then something fluttered round
My head,
It really was so queer,
A tiny voice said soft and sweet,
"There are playmates very near!"

"This is your little marigold,
Really a flower fay,
I could shake out my golden skirts,
And quickly fly away.

"But I know you're lonely, little girl,
So I'll linger here,
Just listen to this secret now,
I'll whisper in your ear.

"Do you see that row of pretty trees
On the hill, beyond the fence?
They give a costume ball today,
And are ready to commence.

"Just rub your eyes and look again,
Those trees are dancing gay,
The winds play on their violins,
And make the branches sway.

"That white birch is a little bride,
A maiden slim and sweet,
The tall spruce is her new husband,
He is always dressed so neat.

"The hemlock is a kind old man,
He loves to shelter birds,
His boughs stay green thru all the year,
To whisper cheering words.

"Those maples, orange, red and gold,
Are girls just out of school,
They like to dress in color bright,
But will not follow rules.

"A policeman is that big brown oak,
He loves that pretty pine,
Those alders are just shabby tramps,
But have to keep in line."

I looked and looked, it was such fun,
To call them all by name,
And see them dancing at a ball,
Before the winter came.

Just then I heard my mother call,
The trees stood straight and still,
I wonder if I was asleep,
Or if my dream was real.

But everytime I'm lonely now,
I find the trees are friends,
They nod and wave upon the hills,
Until my playtime ends.

Obituary

REV. ARTHUR H. RENNIE
The Rev. Arthur H. Rennie, for many years a summer resident at Northfield, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Irvine, 783 East 21st Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sunday, October 23, 1932. Mr. Rennie is survived by his wife, Martha Lahey Rennie.

Mr. and Mrs. Rennie have lived in Florida during the winter for some years past. They were planning their return to Florida when Mr. Rennie became ill and passed away.

The funeral services were conducted by Dr. Snyder, a friend and associate of Mr. Rennie in the Brooklyn Presbytery with which Mr. Rennie was connected for over thirty years.

No one enjoyed Northfield, had a greater appreciation of its beauty, or derived more inspiration from the conferences than Mr. Rennie.

No Trespassing Permitted
Last week two or three boys with guns were seen shooting squirrels about the summer homes of our non-residents in Rustic Ridge. These boys are known and their future conduct along similar lines will be watched for these boys were trespassing on private property where hunting is forbidden. These squirrels in Rustic Ridge, in Mountain Park and in the Highlands are more or less tame and feed from the hands of residents. To shoot them is a dastardly act and unbecoming of sportsmanship. The Summer Resident Associations (three of them) give notice that they will prosecute trespassers on this posted private property. Hunters had better beware.

Likes The Depression And States His Reason

"I like the depression. I have had more fun since the depression than I ever had in my life. Three years ago only one man of the News-Globe organization could be out of town at the same time. Nowadays the whole outfit could leave the office and it wouldn't make any difference. I have time to visit my friends. I am getting acquainted with my neighbors."

Three years ago I ordered my clothes from a merchant tailor, two or three suits at a time. But now I haven't bought a suit in two years. I am mighty proud of my Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes.

Three years ago I was so busy and my wife was so busy that we didn't see much of each other, consequently, we sort of lost interest in each other. About twice a week I went home to dinner. I never had time to go anywhere with her. My wife belonged to all the clubs in town. She even joined the young mothers' club. We don't have any children, but she was studying—and between playing bridge and going to clubs she was never at home.

We got stuck up and highfalutin. We even took down the old family bed and bought a set of twin beds—on the installment. We have come off our pedestal and are really living at home now. The twin beds are stored in the garage, and instead of taking a hot water bottle to bed she sticks her heels in my back, just like she did before Hoover was elected.

My digestion is better. I am eating more wholesome foods. I take more exercise. I walk in town, and a lot of people who used to drive Cadillacs are walking with me.

Three years ago I never had time to go to church. I played golf all day Sunday, and, besides, I was so darned smart that there wasn't a preacher in West Texas who could tell me anything. Now I am going to church regularly, never miss Sunday. And if the depression keeps up I will be going to prayer meeting before long. I like the depression!"

Henry Ansley, of the Amarillo (Tex.) News-Globe.

Frederic W. Cook State Secretary

Frederic W. Cook, Republican candidate for Secretary of the Commonwealth, is one of the busiest officials of the state. He gives all his time to the state service and his office has a well-deserved reputation for courtesy and efficiency.

The Boston Transcript says of him editorially:—"Frederic W. Cook is one of the ablest men that ever filled his high position, and personally liked by everyone having to do with his office, whether Republican, Democrat or Socialist."

Since his first election as Secretary he has never been opposed for nomination. Prior to becoming Secretary, he was for many years city clerk of Somerville, where he was born and has always resided. He is probably the best known man in Somerville and it speaks well for him that in his own city he is also one of the best liked. He is one of the few experts in the state on election laws and many of his recommendations which have been adopted for amendments to these laws have made it much simpler for the voter to participate in elections. The presidential column on this year's ballot was made possible on his recommendation. Another change he has urged for years and which should some day be made is in connection with the form of questions on the ballot, so that they can be stated in such plain, simple words that a voter may mark "yes" or "no," and know how he is voting when he does it.

Vital statistics, census, corporation matters and many other details of state government are under his direction and he is always on the job and his office door is always open to any man or woman in Massachusetts who needs his service.

"Public service means just one thing to Secretary Cook,—service to the public,—and he insists that the public has the right to expect, and demand that service from every public officer."

Gannett Newspapers Will Support Hoover

Mr. Frank E. Gannett who is head of the Gannett chain of newspapers wired the Democratic Hartford Times which is a unit member that he had made a decision to urgently advocate the reelection of President Hoover. He said: "No one, of course, expects the country to go to the dogs entirely with a change in national administration. We can survive political shocks of this sort, but the troublesome factor is the uncertainty that will be intensified if in November we vote for a change to take effect in March."

"The news that President Hoover had been re-elected would give immediate impetus to business. It would be reflected in the market and in the price of securities, and uncertainty about our ultimate recovery would be terminated."

Gets 28 lb. Turtle Near Vernon Dam

It is reported that a Greenfield merchant on a fishing expedition in the waters above the Vernon Dam caught a fine string of perch on Sunday afternoon. In addition to a pole and line it is said he also brought along a rifle and seeing a large turtle used it with effect and brought to shore a 28 lb. turtle which he proudly exhibited to his friends on his return home. What satisfaction this fisherman had in destroying the life of this exceptional sized turtle is hard to understand.

New Recipe Service Begins Today

Beginning today, the Northfield Herald offers housewives of this community a new and valuable service—a recipe column conducted by Frances Lee Barton, well known lecturer and writer on food subjects.

Through arrangements with a New York syndicate Mrs. Barton's column, called "My Favorite Recipes," will appear each week exclusively in this town in our paper.

Mrs. Barton, who is perhaps best known to millions of women through her "Cooking School of the Air," will bring local readers many new, tasty and practical recipes developed and tested by her and her staff of women experts in their model kitchen-laboratories in New York.

Frances Lee Barton

Her long experience with cooking problems admirably fits her to assist both the novice and the veteran who are interested in making better cakes, hot breads, muffins, pies, salads, desserts, jams and jellies, and who want to know more varieties of these things and many others, and more ways of fitting them into attractive meals.

Aside from her professional cooking experience, Mrs. Barton is a qualified homemaker in her own right, to say the least. She is the mother of eight children and cooks for them, too. So you can count on her advice as being workable and not merely theoretical.

Mrs. Barton's "Cooking School of the Air" is broadcast over a national network of stations every Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 11.15 o'clock, eastern standard time, should you be interested in hearing her. Her baking class, held on Thursday, is reported to be composed of the largest group of "students" in the world. More than 75,000 women are enrolled.

Vote Early Election Day Nov. 8th

By order of the Selectmen of Northfield, the polls will be open at Town Hall from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., on Tuesday, Nov. 8. Surely everyone can find opportunity during those ten hours to use his privilege, and perform his duty in casting his vote for national and state officers, and in deciding upon the referendum. This is the real test of our citizenship—our willingness to choose the men who shall carry on our government for us, and to place our confidence in them.

It will aid greatly in the work at the polls if every voter casts his vote at the earliest time he can get to the polls. An early vote means less work for the Town Committee, and better chance for the election returns early in Northfield. Let everyone do his best to have Northfield among the first towns in the state to send in the returns to headquarters. And with the co-operation of every voter, Northfield can lead the towns of Franklin County in casting a 98 per cent vote.

Permits Required For Storage Oils

The editor of the Herald called up Chief Galen Stearns of the Fire Department the other day for information as to local action upon the ruling in the Massachusetts general laws relative to the keeping of light fuel oil in greater than 10 gallon quantities. It is understood that a permit for storage in greater than 10 gallon tanks must be obtained from the fire chief. Furthermore the tanks must be on or below the lowest floor of the house at least seven feet from any open fire or flame and shall be supported by a framework of incombustible material. Tanks not connected with a burner shall be equipped with an approved self-closing faucet.

Chief Stearns will make a definite statement in the Herald later.

Men Teachers Organize In County

About thirty of men teachers of the schools in Franklin County have organized a club with Principal George A. Froberger of Shelburne Falls as president. Other officers chosen were: Supt. Linville W. Robbins of Northfield, vice president; Benjamin C. L. Sander of Greenfield, secretary and treasurer. The group plans to hold informal meetings during the year.

You And Your Auto This Winter

The fall and winter months are the most dangerous of the year for automobile driving.

Rain, snow, sleet, hail and ice; early darkness, haste to reach home and escape the cold, tightly closed cars and low visibility, all contribute to the hazards.

Skidding is a chief danger of cold weather driving. The motorist must confront not only a visible wet or icy surface, but one hidden under a bed of fallen leaves.

Last year 1,740 persons were killed and 51,720 injured in 44,510 accidents due to skidding cars. "The automobilist cannot carry the driving practices of the late spring and summer over to the fall and winter without running a great risk of accident," says Maxwell Halsey, Traffic Engineer of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. "Conditions become vastly different in the last three months of the year, and the driver must take them into consideration." Mr. Halsey lays down certain rules for the dangerous driving months.

"Have your car thoroughly inspected for any mechanical defects that may have developed during the summer."

Be especially sure your brakes are effective; be sure your tires are in first-class condition, and your lights and your windshield wiper.

"Cut down on your summer speed."

"Allow for early darkness and for decreased visibility."

"If you find your car going to skid do not jam on your brakes." Under the most perfect conditions, the driver of an automobile when the bad days come, that care should exercise extreme care. And should be stretched to the utmost.

A wise motorist will see that his or her car is thoroughly gone over at one of the local garages and put in the best of condition.

Hoover Leads Straw Vote At Mount Hermon

The students of Mount Hermon took a straw vote on presidential preferences last Saturday and the result shows that Herbert Hoover is the leading and popular candidate. Speeches for the three leading candidates for President were given at the assembly of school under the auspices of the Good Government League. The vote was: Hoover, 246; Thomas, 62; Roosevelt, 40.

Nine Are Killed By Autos In Week

Nine persons were killed by automobiles in this state last week, a reduction of 13 from the week before and 14 less than in the same period of last year. This total is the lowest of any on record since 1928 in the month of October. Not a single child was killed last week, and only two were pedestrians, while five were occupants on one was a railroad crossing victim and one was a bicycle rider. Northampton was the only municipality in Western Massachusetts on the black list, with two deaths, and the only place in the state with more than one during the week.

Hoover Hails Bible Sunday

Sunday, December 4th will be observed as "Bible Sunday" throughout the nation as the American Bible Society sponsors its observance. President Hoover has made the following statement in regard to it:

Universal Bible Sunday once a year brings to all our people simultaneously a concerted stimulus to study the Bible and to ponder its inexhaustible wealth of inspiration and example. The spiritual life is enriched by the annual observance of this day.

The American Bible Society has sent material to almost 87,000 pastors throughout this country for their use in stimulating on "Bible Sunday" a deeper interest in the use and significance of the Scriptures.

Armistice Day

Friday, November 11th will be Armistice Day and will be observed to recall the debt we owe to those living and dead who made the great sacrifice.

The Governor of the State has issued a proclamation calling upon citizens for its observance.

We, the people of Massachusetts, are in these troubled times absorbed in the complex problems of civic, economic and social life. Yet with an exultation of spirit we pause as the anniversary of that never-to-be-forgotten day in November approaches. We recall with deep gratitude the ungrudging sacrifices of our soldiers and sailors and the unwavering support of our people in that great war for democracy and human rights. Fourteen years have elapsed since that memorable 11th day of November, 1918, when the news of the victory flashed around the world and we felt that our principles of liberty, self-government and our spiritual ideals were safe. Never since that day has there been so great a need for us to have the same exalted spirit of patriotism as exists at present.

Dairymen Take Notice!

Public hearings on the regulations for the inspection of dairy farms supplying milk to Massachusetts will be held here at the town hall, Boston, November 10th and in Northampton, November 17, according to an announcement from Dr. A. W. Gilbert, Chairman of the State Milk Regulation Board which will administer the new dairy farm inspection law. Before these hearings are held tentative regulations will be drawn up by the Board and everyone interested will have an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval.

Two separate conferences have already expressed their views regarding the general regulations. The milk inspectors discussed the question of proper inspection some days ago and presented their views to the Board. Another conference attended by representative dairymen and other farm leaders also expressed their views to the Board. In order to still further clarify and unify these different points of view, a joint conference of these and some other groups will be called November 3 in Boston. It is hoped that the Board can announce the proposed regulations promptly after this conference.

At a recent meeting of the Milk Regulation Board the general qualifications of candidates for jobs as inspectors was taken up. The aim of the Board, Dr. Gilbert stated, is to provide an inspection system that will fulfill its purpose of protecting the milk supply on the premises where it is produced and at the same time not to impose undue hardship on the farmers. The Board decided that candidates must have motive judgment and must have had at least a high school education. Some experience on dairy farms will be required. There was considerable discussion as to whether or not an agricultural college training should be insisted upon. The Board finally decided not to require such training but to give additional credit if any candidate had such special training.

Much progress has been made on the senior class play, "Polishing Papa," which is to be presented at the town hall Wednesday evening, November 30.

The boys had a higher attendance record for October than the girls although all the Sophomore girls except one have a perfect record so far.

Friday's assembly program was in charge of Miss Gerrish. It consisted of school songs and a one-act play, entitled, "When the Wife's Away."

There were a good many high averages for the first two months of the year. 23% of the school had an average of 85 or higher and of these, 7% were 90 or above.

Red Cross Workers

To Dine Friday

In preparation for the annual Red Cross roll call which opens Nov. 11, Frank L. Boyden, headmaster of Deerfield academy Friday night at 7 o'clock. He will have as his guests all town chairmen of the coming drive, their workers and friends. The addresses of the evening will be given by Dr. Thomas E. Green, director of the Red Cross speaking service and Thomas E. Shea, chairman of the Red Cross roll call at Springfield. Dr. Green has been identified with Red Cross work since 1917 and has spoken and lectured in all parts of the United States. He is a man widely traveled and his experiences in many countries have been woven into his public addresses. He devoted much of his time to international peace and in 1917 he represented the Carnegie Endowment which is devoted to advancing that cause. He directed the speakers bureau for the Victory Liberty loan and acted in a similar capacity for the Chinese Famine relief campaign.

Courthouse Opening
Is Still Undecided

It is expected that the new Court House Building will be gradually occupied within the next few weeks. The County Clerk is moving into his offices now. The extension services is already quartered there. The superior court session will be held there Nov. 14th. The dates for the occupancy of the new quarters of the district court, probate court, registry of deeds and other departments have not been determined. They will be decided within a short time. It is worth while for our citizens to look into this beautiful but costly building erected at the expense of all the taxpayers in the county.

SIXTY DISASTERS
IN 1932 ADD TO
RELIEF PROBLEMS

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 to Help Victims of Catastrophes.

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions. During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 338,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,786. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, snowstorm, mine explosion or other similar great disaster.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 58,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,980,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $66,000 local contributions to help 13,000 persons.

More than 50,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $108,000 and local contributions were $10,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied, in part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.

Services at the South Vernon church next Sunday are as follows:—10.45 a.m., Sermon by the pastor; 12.15 p.m. Church school; 7 p.m., song service; 7.30 p.m., sermon by the pastor; 7.30 p.m., Thursday mid-week service at the Vernon Home.

Mrs. Julia Ennis has returned home from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Mary Johnson, in Amherst. She plans to return to Amherst, for a much longer stay later.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miessner have recently entertained his sister and husband from Yonkers, N. Y.

Local talent given by the South Vernon P. T. A., gave an excellent "Minstrel Show" at the South schoolhouse, to a full house on Tuesday evening November 1. Members of the cast were: Mr.

and Mrs. E. W. Dunklee, Mrs. E. P. Edson, Mr. R. E. Bruce, Mrs. Loring Cowles, Mrs. Gould, Miss Eleanor Brown and Mrs. M. H. Brown. The members gave jokes, songs, and a business meeting and then a "Mock Wedding." Mrs. E. P. Edson was the "bride," who was dressed in a pretty pink costume with a white bridal veil and she carried pink roses. Miss Eleanor Brown, "Bridegroom," dressed in a man's suit, R. E. Bruce, "Mose," the father who was old and decrepit and very lame and had to go with a cane who gave away the bride; Mrs. Cowles, the mother, Mrs. E. W. Dunklee, "Maid of honor," and E. W. Dunklee, the "parson." The "bridegroom" had an "awful time" trying to find the "marriage license" for the "marriage." The first license proved to be a "hunting license," a dog license, and the third proved to be something else, but they made it do. After the "marriage ceremony" "congratulations" were in order for them, and then they left on their "wedding trip," amid a shower of "confetti" (corn). Songs were sung by a group of girls. The program was opened with a business meeting and then Miss Brown gave an interesting account of the Teachers' Convention she recently attended in Burlington, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Smead and daughter of Vernon, and Mrs. George A. Gray and daughter, Nina, attended church in Loudon Ridge, N. H., last Sunday. They gave Mrs. Gray's daughter and husband, Rev. and Mrs. B. D. Tibbetts a real surprise.

A fine Halloween entertainment was given at the South schoolhouse last week Wednesday evening, by the teacher, Miss Eleanor Brown and her pupils. The program was opened by a recitation, "Welcome," by Janice Pratt; recitation, "Why Cats Wash Af-

LONG ago, when I first noticed that men folk were so extraordinarily fond of coconut pie, I thought "I would be a wise woman to have several different kinds of coconut pie in one's recipe collection." If there's an easier way to win favor, I don't know it.

This Coconut Cream Pie is a real classic, with a rich, creamy custard filling. Hawaiian Fruit Pie is something of a novelty, and Coconut Sweet Potato Pie, an old Southern favorite.

Coconut Cream Pie

8 tablespoons cake flour; 4 tablespoons sugar; 1/2 cup cold milk; 1/4 cup milk; scalded; 2 eggs yolk, slightly beaten; 1/4 cup shredded coconut; 2 tablespoons vanilla; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Combine flour, sugar and salt; add cold milk and mix well. Add scalded milk gradually, place in double boiler and cook until thickened stirring constantly. Pour small amount over egg yolk, return to double boiler, add 1 cup coconut, and cook 2 to 4 minutes longer. Cool. Add vanilla. Pour filling into pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is thoroughly blended. After all sugar is added, continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Pie lightly on filling. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup coconut. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes.

Hawaiian Fruit Pie

1/4 cup sifted cake flour; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 3 cups milk, scalded; 2 eggs yolk, slightly beaten; 3 tablespoons butter; 3 tablespoons lemon juice; 1/4 cup grated pineapple; 1 cup shredded coconut; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Combine flour, sugar and salt; add cold milk and mix well. Add scalded milk gradually, place in double boiler, and cook until thickened stirring constantly. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolk, return to double boiler, and cook 2 to 4 minutes longer. Cool. Add butter, lemon juice, pineapple, and coconut. Cool and pour into pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is thoroughly blended. After all sugar is added, continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Pie lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes.

Coconut Sweet Potato Pie

Pie crust, 1 cup shredded coconut, 1/4 cups cooked sweet potatoes, mashed; 1 cup sugar; 1 tablespoon flour; 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 2 eggs, slightly beaten; 3 cups milk, scalded.

Line pie plate with pastry. Combine ingredients in order given and mix thoroughly. Pour into pie plate. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake 30 minutes longer. Make one 9-inch pie.

ter Eating" by Dorothy and Louise Heath; recitation, "The Nut Party" by Walter Zaluzny, Raymond Gould, Alfred Corey, and Allie Skib; song, "Hallowe'en," Grades 1-4; recitation, "Hallowe'en," by James Heath; recitation, "Hallowe'en," by Michael Zaluzny; recitation, "Hallowe'en," Alma Dunklee; recitation, "A Hallowe'en Story," Genevieve Edson; recitation, "Little Orphan Annie," Ruth Dunklee; organ solo, Nina Gray; recitation, "Autumn Magic," Elsie Heath; recitation, "Hallowe'en," Leonard Carey; recitation, "The Jack O'Lantern," Ellen Heath; recitation, "The Gnome," Cortland Dunklee; song, by the girls; recitation, "Little Girls," Janey Cowles; recitation, "Billy's Dream," Walter Corey; The Sewing Circle, by the girls. This was a tableau that was acted out and the girls were dressed in old fashioned costumes with long dresses and each pupil did her part well, showing the good training they had had by their teacher. Song, by the girls; Jack O'Lantern Drill, by the pupils. This was well done and it was wonderful scene. Doughnuts and sweet cider were served for refreshments.

Shear Nonsense

Old Rogerson Tatters from Brushville drifted into town today and was heard to observe: "In the gay nineties they worried how daughter was going to turn out. Now it's what time she will turn in."

Teacher: Willie, can you tell me why Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence?

Willie: "Cause he couldn't afford to hire a stenographer, I guess."

Teacher: Johnny, can you define nonsense?

Johnny: Yes, teacher — an elephant hanging over a cliff with its tail tied to a daisy.

Mistress: I can see a spider web in the corner, Mandy! To what do you attribute that?

Mandy: To a spider, Missus.

The latest Caledonian joke: The talk was of race horses, and one of the party, a much traveled racing man, was asked what was the closest race he had ever seen. He answered: "The Scotch!"

Mr. Newlywed: The bank all my money was in has gone broke.

Mrs. Newlywed: What a blessing, dear, that your checkbook was here at home.

The driver in that car ahead must be a former teacher of mine. What makes you think that?

She's not inclined to let me pass.

Mr.: What do you mean, dear, when you say I'm deceiving you?

Mrs.: I've discovered that you

"Isn't your new overcoat rather loud?"

"It's not bad when I put a muffler on."

Asked what she thought of married life, a recent bride answered: "The only change I notice is that before we were married he never knew enough to go and now he never knows enough to come home."

"Say, old chap, lend me $5, will you?"

"Sorry, but I only have $4.75."

"Oh, that's all right. I'll trust you for the other quarter."

A casualty insurance company that had required some additional evidence to support a claim received a letter from the beneficiary which ended:

"I have so much trouble getting the money that I sometimes almost think I wish my husband were not dead."

She—You'll forgive me, won't you for being so angry with you all last week?

He—Yes, indeed! I saved $23 while we weren't on speaking terms.

"Say, gimme a dime, won't you, Dad?"

"Aren't you too big to ask for a dime?"

"Maybe. Then how about a dollar?"

"You claim you raised a champion squash. Just how big was it?"

"Oh, we never measured it, but we used the seeds for snowshoes."

"Give a starving man a nickel for a cup of coffee, please, Mister?"

"Sorry, but I have only a $5 bill."

"That's all right, mister; I got change."

Mrs. Newlywed: What shall we give mother for a birthday present?

Mr. Newlywed: How about a nice traveling bag?

A hunter from the city, crossing a field noticed a bull coming toward him.

"Hi, there!" he shouted to a farmer in an adjoining field. "Is that bull safe?"

"Wa—al," drawled the farmer. "I reckon he's a dang sight safer than you are right now."

"A good deal depends on early habits."

"Yes, when I was a baby my mother paid a woman to wheel me around and I've been pushed for money ever since."

Mr.—That's a beautiful frock, my dear, but it cost me a lot of money.

Mrs.—I'm glad you like it, dear, and what do I care about money when it's a question of pleasing you?

"I had a nice balance in the bank, but I got married two months ago and—"

"Ah, love makes the world go round!"

"Yes, but I didn't think it would go round so fast that I'd lose my balance."

Living Costs Decrease

The cost of living continued to decrease in Massachusetts last month with a reduction of 2.5 per cent as compared to August and the purchasing price of the dollar reached 79.9 cents. Although the price of meat in the state went up to some extent, this was offset by lower prices of fish, flour, meal, potatoes, onions, canned goods, all of which brought about a slight decrease in the food section. A decrease of 1.33 per cent was noted in the cost of clothing, due to the lower prices for suits, men's and women's shoes, and cotton goods. Increases occurred in the prices of hats, gloves, shirts and men's underwear. Due to the seasonal increase in the price of coal, the fuel and light cost went up about 2.5 per cent.

PRISON FOOTBALL BASIC IDEA FOR

"HOLD 'EM JAIL" COMEDY

Wheeler and Woolsey Star As Ball And Chain Gridiron
Heroes, Cheered By Edna May Oliver

The thought of a prison football team is funny enough to begin with. But when it is carried out to the extreme in absurd equations, when the entire prison is given a collegiate atmosphere with bands, cheering sections and an enthusiastic alumni with quaint and original methods of obtaining new gridiron talent, the basic idea easily becomes a laugh riot.

Just how funny the whole nonsensical whim can be is demonstrated by the RKO Radio picture, "Hold 'Em Jail," starting Sunday at the Lawler with Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Edna May Oliver and Roscoe Ates in the leading roles.

The vehicle is the happiest selection possible for Wheeler and Woolsey. The picture is delightful nonsense which makes it at once ideal for the comics' unique style of funmaking.

There never was and never will be a prison like Bidmore penitentiary, which is where Wheeler and Woolsey land when they boast of their imaginary football prowess in a tough drive where the "scouts" for Bidmore are looking for talent.

Also, there never was a warden like Edgar Kennedy, who had a sister like Edna May Oliver, who had a niece like pretty Betty Grable, who supplies that necessary "love interest" in collaboration with Wheeler. Wheeler is presented as the "world's greatest athlete, the man who invented athlete's foot."

The stuttering Roscoe Ates is the Bidmore quarterback who heartlessly accepts a parole at a critical moment of the "big game" and nearly wrecks Bidmore's chances for the "Penitentiary Conference Championship."

The action and dialogue of "Hold 'Em Jail" races through the field of slapstick. By the time the play is built up to the scene of the big game one should reasonably be all steamed up over Bidmore's chances on the gridiron, although there never was a football game played that even remotely resembled this one.

Wheeler and Woolsey win for Bidmore but not until they have resorted to every device of the alert gag writers' minds.

Besides the antics of Wheeler and Woolsey and Miss Oliver and Ates, Edgar Kennedy bids for plenty of howls as the futile and apoplectic warden. Warren Hymer as a dumb cluck convict and Paul Hurst coach are also in the fun contest.

Many famous all-American football stars appear in the lineups of the prison teams, but whether they can be recognized made up as "tough mugs" is another matter.

Norman Taurog directed the picture from a story by Tim Whelan and Lew Lipton, with continuity by Albert Ray and dialogue by Walter de Leon and S. J. Perelman.

"WHITE ZOMBIE" ONE OF THE EERIEST PICTURES EVER BROUGHT TO SCREEN

Story Describes How Black Sorcery Is Employed In Haiti To Exhume Dead Bodies and Make Them Work

"White Zombie," one of the eeriest and most fantastic stories ever pictured for the screen, will have its premiere at the Lawler starting Sunday, and American movie fans will thus learn, thousands of them for the first time, of the occult practices in Haiti in which by processes of sorcery dead bodies are dug from their graves and put to work as slaves.

Rumors have been reaching the United States for years of these sinister practices, and now, for the first time, light is thrown upon them by a screen presentation. The story of "White Zombie" is based upon personal observation in Haiti by American writers and research workers, and fantastic as it sounds, its entire substance is based upon fact.

Lugosi Starred

"White Zombie" was produced in Hollywood by Edward and Victor Hugo Halperin, independent producers who have made countless successful pictures in the past decade, the story being an original by Garnett Weston. It is being released throughout the world by United Artists Corporation.

Bela Lugosi, who came into prominence in this country with his stage and screen creation of Count Dracula in "Dracula," has the principal role in this newcomer, and his portrayal even surpasses that former work of artistry. He plays the role of a sinister fiend who traffics in the exhumation of dead bodies in order to man his sugar cane mills and his fields. He also has nine of the Zombies as a personal bodyguard, a bodyguard which perpetrates heinous crimes at the behest of their hypnotic alter ego.

Madge Bellamy, who retired from the screen two years ago in order to devote her time to stage work, makes her screen comeback in the principal feminine role. Joseph Cawthorn also plays one of the principal pal roles, as Johnny Harron, Robert Frazer, Clarence Muse and Brandon Hurst.

Photography Beautiful

The settings and photography of "White Zombie" are among the best ever done for the screen. They include, for example, a castle in the Haitian mountains which is one of the largest of its kind in the history of motion pictures. This, with the tropical scenery of Haiti, makes an unusually striking background for this weird story.

The story tells of a young American couple who become entangled with the leader of the Zombies in Haiti, the result of which the young bride is placed under the influence of a powerful drug which relegates her to the mental plane of a sleepwalker. She remains in this state for several weeks, and it is only after all but superhuman efforts on the part of her husband and an American missionary that happiness is wrested from tragedy.

"THAT'S MY BOY" THE REAL THING IN GRID STORIES

For authenticity of football detail, "That's My Boy," the Columbia football picture featuring Richard Cromwell, Dorothy Jordan and Mae Marsh, is superior to any of the cycle of gridiron films which have yet been released from Hollywood.

The story was adapted from the novel by Francis Wallace, one of the leading football writers of New York City newspapers and the author of "Touchdown" and "Huddle." He also wrote a book based upon the life of the late Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, with whom he was on friendly terms.

Oscar George Hendrian, better known to millions of football fans as "Dutch" Hendrian, an all-American star at the University of Pittsburgh and later on several noted professional teams, including the New York Giants, acted as technical football adviser. In his career "Dutch" has played on more than a dozen different teams, knows hundreds of grid stars intimately. Hendrian also plays the role of one of the coaches in the picture.

Russell Saunders, all-American halfback in 1929 when he ran 95 yards for a touchdown from the kickoff while playing for the University of Southern California against Notre Dame, plays the role of the football captain in "That's My Boy."

With such eagle-eyed critics as Hendrian and Saunders looking on, there was small chance for mistakes to get into the football sequences.

The stirring football scenes of "That's My Boy" showing, Thursday—Friday—Saturday at the Lawler Theatre were made by the 1931 teams of the University of Southern California, which was awarded the mythical national championship, following its victories over Notre Dame and Tulane, and the team from St. Mary's College, which earlier in the season had administered a 13 to 0 setback to Southern California, in one of the greatest football games ever played.

Numerous all-American football heroes were on the field when Roy William Neill directed the football sequences with a battery of six cameras to record all the spectacular action.

There was Ernie Pinckert, all-American fullback, who is playing with the New York Giants, noted professional team this year; Jim Musick, Gaius Shaver, Tay Brown, Ernie Smith, Butch Simas, Toby Hunt and Earl Sparling.

The story of "That's My Boy" is that of "Snakehips" Scott, a spectacular open field runner, who becomes a national idol because of his football prowess. He becomes involved in an ugly scandal as the result of football commercialism but is vindicated. All the trials and tribulations of this youth who is plunged from the heights of adulation to the depths of disgrace are dramatically brought out.

His role in "That's My Boy," is the best Cromwell ever has had to date. His career, ever since he was discovered by the president of Columbia Pictures, two years ago and immediately cast for the lead in "Tol'able David" has been a brilliant one, including such pictures as "Fifty Fathoms Deep," "Maker of Men," "Emma," "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain" and "The Age of Consent."

SPECIAL ELECTION NIGHT SHOW

Starting at eleven o'clock next Tuesday (Election Day) night a show has been arranged for the Garden Theatre which will permit announcement of returns of state, local and national election via RADIO TELETYPE through the courtesy of the RECORDER-GAZETTE. The Radio Teletype is something new and no other newspaper in the country has it. It insures patrons of the Garden fast service on election returns and authentic returns. Admission has been placed at a minimum of 25c for all seats.

With Tallulah Bankhead and Robert Montgomery co-starred in their first appearance together, "Faithless," an incisive study of the problems of the penniless rich, heads the program at the Garden Theatre.

This timely drama comes from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where it was filmed with all the contrast in lavish gaiety and drab poverty needed to accurately mirror the fall from financial grace and gilded youth accustomed to Park avenue mansions, flocks of servants, European jaunts and all the other signs and symbols of wealth.

Mildred Cram, who wrote the story on which the film is based, has lifted the curtain on the sham of daughters of the rich who fight against social oblivion by living on their more fortunate friends until unable to keep up the pretense, they are relentlessly carried downstream by adverse currents.

Expert On Modern Themes

The picture was directed by Harry Beaumont who recently brought another present-day problem to light with his production of "Unashamed," which starred Helen Twelvetrees. Beaumont earned his place among the front rank of screen directors with "The Broadway Melody," and had another big success in his credit in "Dance Fools, Dance," one of Joan Crawford's best vehicles.

Miss Bankhead was borrowed from Paramount to lend the brilliance of her personality as the girl who plunges from the dizzy heights of wealth to the depths of poverty. Montgomery plays the man who proves to her that poverty is no obstacle to happiness. Other important roles are played by Hugh Herbert, Maurice Murphy, Louise Closser Hale, Anna Appel, Lawrence Grant and Henry Kolker.

Norman Shearer in "Smilin' Through," directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Sidney Franklin, with a supporting cast headed by Frederic March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie and Ralph Forbes, will open Saturday at the Garden Theatre. In this lavish production Norma Shearer for the first time in her career plays a dual role.

In this she duplicates the feat of Jane Cowl, who starred in the original New York stage production. Miss Shearer portrays both the tragic Moonyeen in the hoop-skirted Victorian sequences and Kathleen Sheridan in the modern scenes around which the happier romance of the tale centers.

Second Unusual Venture

It is Miss Shearer's second venture into the unusual in drama. Her previous departure was in "Strange Interlude," in which she had the singular experience of both speaking and hearing her silent thoughts expressed audibly.

In the speaking screen version of "Smilin' Through," Miss Shearer has an advantage which Jane Cowl was not permitted in the stage production. First as the intended bride and then as the ward of Sir John Carteret, the role which Leslie Howard plays, Miss Shearer is able to return in fantasy to the mind of her brooding lover—in which moments of reverie she appears twice in a single scene.

NORMA SHEARER

Thus, although the story covers a fifty years' elapse of time, during which Leslie Howard grows from youth to white-haired old age, Miss Shearer remains youthful throughout. It is, the star concedes, her severest dramatic test to date, not excepting her difficult role in "Strange Interlude."

Also Play Dual Roles

Frederic March and Leslie Howard, as heads of her dramatic cast, also have unusual trials in characterization. March, like Miss Shearer, has two roles in the story. In the beginning he is Jeremy Wayne, rival of Leslie Howard for the hand of Moonyeen. Later he portrays the son of Jeremy Wayne, returning to England at the time the country is preparing to enter the World War.

Of the three principals Leslie Howard alone retains a single identity. But his role is no less intricate, for it requires a transition covering three distinct ages.

As director of Miss Shearer's production of "Smilin' Through," Sidney Franklin is repeating the service he performed in Norma Talmadge's silent production.

The present cast is said to be the finest to reach the screen. In addition to those mentioned above it includes Beryl Mercer, David Torrence, Margaret Seddon and Forrester Harvey.

Every steamer that puts out from a port fronting on any one of the Seven Seas is freighted with unguessed, untold dramas. No stranger or more fascinating drama has ever been laid on an ocean liner, it is safe to say, than the one which transpires during the scenes of "One Way Passage," which comes next Wednesday to the Garden Theatre with William Powell and Kay Francis as the stars.

Strangers to each other until they meet at the opening of the story, Joan Ames and Dan Hardesty fall in love the moment their eyes meet. Instantly they resolve that the month of love and companionship they can have while their steamship is crossing the Pacific is worth all the rest of life. And they know that is the price each must pay, for death, in a different guise, waits for both on the American shore.

Opening in Hong Kong, on the eve of the vessel's departure, the action carries the audience across the Pacific, stopping enroute at Hawaii for a day, and moving relentlessly to its climax as the Golden Gate is passed.

To obtain the maximum degree of realism for these steamship scenes, Warner Bros., chartered an ocean liner, complete with officers and crew and turned it into a "floating studio" for six days. On the decks of the big steamer, in its engine room, and its salons, while the steamer cruised the high seas under the command of the picture's director, the most important sequences in "One Way Passage" were produced. They have the authentic feeling, the undertone of reality that drama, made under such conditions, is bound to have.

"One Way Passage" is the second co-starring vehicle for William Powell and Kay Francis to be made at the Warner-First National studios, and is the sixth production in which these two favorites have been teamed.

Aline MacMahon and Frank McHugh, although a pair of steamship crooks, are afforded most sympathetic comedy roles which they handle to perfection. Warren Hymer, in the role of a strong-arm American detective, gives an outstanding performance. Other members of the cast are Herbert Mundin in the role of steward; Frederick Burton as the doctor in personal attendance on Joan Ames, and Douglas Gerrard as a monocled English nobleman who takes Aline MacMahon, as "The Countess," at her face value.

Tay Garnett is the director of "One Way Passage," the screen play of which is by Robert Lord, adaptation and dialogue by Joseph Jackson and Wilson Minner, authors of many outstanding successes.

"Four boys and a guitar—the Mills Brothers!" says the announcer. And immediately millions of loud-speakers boom forth with what sounds like a full orchestra.

How these four Negro lads from Piqua, Ohio, who are featured with a large group of other radio stars in a cast headed by Stuart Erwin, Bing Crosby, and Leila Hyams in "The Big Broadcast," romantic comedy of radioland coming to the Garden Theatre Armistice Day achieve their unique effects is a problem that has puzzled many a radio listener. For with their voices alone they sound more like an orchestra than many a real band.

And here's how each explains his personal tricks: John, 21, the oldest, who imitates a tuba: "I form the largest possible space in my mouth and pucker my lips so that when the 'oompah' is ready to come out it not only has the tone of the tuba, but the volume. Getting close to the microphone also adds to the effect." Experts are inclined to believe John's throat is unusually built, however, for no one has been able to imitate him successfully.

Harry, 18, who imitates the trumpet: "I cup my hands around my mouth and nose. When the air comes out with the sound it is in a much higher pitch than it ordinarily would be. I studied the construction of the trumpet from the scientific angle, and it proved a valuable aid to me."

Herbert, 19, who imitates the saxophone: "I manipulate my lips according to the tone desired."

Donald, 17, who sings the lead, has learned all the tricks of his older brothers and can carry on with any of the imitations.

The Mills Brothers are featured with such radio stars as Kate Smith, Burns and Allen, the Boswell Sisters, Arthur Tracy (The Street Singer), Vincent Lopez and his Orchestra, and Cab Calloway and his Orchestra in "The Big Broadcast." The story deals with Erwin's purchase of a radio station, at Miss Hyams's request, to give Crosby a job. The results are romantic but amusing.

Bernardston Sees

Many Old Quilts

At the Unitarian Church at Bernardston last week Wednesday in connection with a social and supper a fine display was made of many old quilts and antique garments which have been very highly regarded by all who have seen them.

Among the older quilts were one loaned by Mrs. Alice Cushman and made by Mrs. Hulda Parinenter Cushman in 1787, a cube quilt made by Mrs. Paul Allen in 1875; hand made counterpane 75 years old loaned by Mrs. Harold Denison; a silk crazy quilt made by Mrs. Stillman Barber, mother of Mrs. C. S. Barber; a sun flower pattern loaned by Mrs. Howard Wilson and made by her grandmother 100 years ago; a painted quilt made 75 years ago by an aunt of Miss Orrie Barrett; a 75 year old crazy quilt loaned by Mrs. H. L. Crowell; a log-cabin quilt made by the great grandmother of the late Mrs. I. B. Snow; a very handsome flag quilt loaned by C. E. Barber; a quilt loaned by Mrs. Nellie Nichols of Greenfield made by her aunt, the late Burk Slate in 1874.

A pretty quilt pieced by Mrs. George Thurburn's aunt, when she was 70 was also shown; quilt made by Mrs. George Morton's great grandmother, 125 years ago; an oakley pattern pieced and quilted before 1850; old maid's puzzle loaned by Mrs. Fred Legate; basket quilt made by the late Mrs. Sidney Hale, loaned by Mrs. Lilia Gaines.

A dress worn by Mrs. C. S. Barber in 1852 and a little dress loaned by Mrs. Alice Cushman, 107 years old, were shown. Committee included Mrs. Joseph Allen and Miss Elinor Barber. One of the quilts exhibited was made during the summer of 1877 by the girls in district No. 1. Their teacher, Miss Lillie Sanderson formed a sewing club called "Earnest Workers." In the fall they gave an oyster party in the town hall and had a sale of articles which they had made. The money received from this sale was used in building the tower in which the town clock was placed. The members of "Earnest Workers" now living are Lucy Cutler, Rose Bowker, Ellen Hartney, Fannie Hale, Fannie Persons, Eliza Chapin, Hattie Wright, Marie Burrows, Effie Bowker, Hattie Allen, Carrie Slate, Abbie Burrows, Maria Chapin and Aimee Whithead, the owners of the quilt.

Couple Observe
25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Burrows of Bernardston held a reception Sunday in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary when about 70 friends and relatives called to offer congratulations.

Mrs. Burrows was a native of Vernon, Vt., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Freeport Fairman, and Mr. Burrows was born in Bernardston, where he has always lived the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Burrows.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrows were married in Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 31, 1907 by Rev. A. H. Webb. They first lived with Mr. Burrows's parents. They lived at East Bernardston 13 years and after the home was burned moved back to the old home place where they remained until two years ago, when they sold the place and built a fine house near . . . They have four children, Mrs. Richard Phelps, Charles, Abbie and Ellie Burrows, and one grandchild, Isabelle Abbie Phelps. Miss Abbie Burrows was dressed in the wedding gown worn by her mother 25 years ago, which was a blue taffeta. Mr. Burrows has been superintendent of state roads for several years.

Several gifts of silver, money and linen were received and a handsome plant and jardiniere was presented by the United and Methodist church members.

Ever Stop To Think?

During any day you can see hurrying cars on the highways, hurrying to get somewhere, and then hurrying to get back. I suggest to these triflers with death that when the urge for great speed comes to them that they try it out on a race track and not on a public highway.

Hopes are being entertained in some places that this is the last year of the depression. It is the fervent prayer of all that these hopes will be realized.

Advertising makes a newspaper, and your home newspaper does the most to make your city. If it were not for your newspaper the outside world would not know that your city is on the map. It puts it on the map and keeps it there.

There is no closed season on automobile accidents.

We must not forget in the present state of the world that capacity for national defense is still a qualification for self government.

The business concern who does not use newspaper advertising may think they know what they are doing, but nobody else does.

A lot of people in public life seem to get quite excited over electric rates. The fact of the matter is, when one comes to consider the many services electricity performs in the home, electric service is about the smallest item that enters into the family budget. These excitable people could help the country more if they spent their time developing better business, better markets and better prices for our agricultural and manufactured products.

There is only one end for a city that takes two backward steps for every one they take forward. Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Fruit and Milk Important Parts Of Food Dollar Say Authorities

Cut this out, paste on cardboard and hang on your kitchen wall for ready reference.

By BETTY BAROLAY

MEET the 1932 food dollar! We'll introduce you and explain. This dollar provides a health-maintaining diet at the most economical cost. As the illustration shows, it has been divided by leading food authorities into fifths, each fifth purchasing a group of necessary foods. Next time you go to market, try this plan. One further word! Look for bargains and buy the most that you can with each one-fifth dollar spent.

One-fifth or more (20 to 25 cents) is spent for cheese and milk, either fresh or the cheaper evaporated and powdered forms often sold at bargain prices. Milk provides the best type of body-building proteins, so necessary for the growing bodies of children.

One-fifth or less (15 to 20 cents) is spent for such other protein foods as meats, fish, eggs and the economical stand-bys, beans, peas, lentils, peanut butter.

One-fifth or less (15 to 20 cents) is spent for energy-providing fats, margarine, vegetable oils, margarine, salt pork, butter, molasses, sorghum syrup, corn syrup and sugar, which is a good and very cheap source of food energy if properly balanced with other needed foods. Miscellaneous groceries, such as coffee, tea, salt, baking powder should come out of this part of the food dollar.

One-fifth or more (20 to 25 cents) is spent for whole wheat bread, oatmeal, corn meal, wheat cereal, flour, rice, macaroni and similar cereal foods. These are diet staples. They are cheap foods and your 20 cents will buy more of them than it will buy in any other food group. But remember the other foods are necessary for a well-balanced diet.

One-fifth or more (20 to 25 cents) is spent for vegetables and fruits. This is a very important food group, providing protective minerals and vitamins together with laxative bulk. The country's foremost food authorities are warning us against the possibility of scurvy, if the daily diet does not provide the fruits and vegetables which furnish vitamin C. Oranges and lemons are foremost sources of this vitamin. Tomatoes provide half as much of it as oranges, so that twice as much of them must be given for the same protection. Beginning symptoms of scurvy are tooth and gum troubles and a below par physical condition.

Bargains are often to be had in this food group. Oranges, for example, are very plentiful this summer and very cheap, due to a bumper harvest in California of small fruit of the popular juice sizes. Other fruits and vegetables come on the market heavily at times and offer bargains, also.

After your food dollars are spent, menus have to be planned and meals cooked. Foods need not be elaborate to be appetizing but should be well cooked and properly seasoned. There are many delicious but simple recipes using the foods we have purchased, and providing vitamin C.

No, This Is Not Eddie Cantor; It's a Pair of Athletic Musicians

The two fully accoutered gentlemen are Ralph Collicchio, banjo player, and Hans Sittig, cellist, two of America's best known musicians. They are shown in a playful mood.

Many persons wonder what musicians do in their spare time. A canvass of George Earle's Blue Coal orchestra uncovered a wide variety of avocations, ranging from boxing to bagpipe-playing.

After hours in radio studios, the artists, it seems, like to turn to the great outdoors.

Ralph Collicchio, who plays the banjo in Earle's orchestra, is an ardent hunter, and runs a trapline near Port Jervis, N. Y. Hans Sittig, cellist, is an expert dry fly fisherman and a student of woodcraft.

Earle's orchestra, which is heard over both N. B. C. and Columbia networks on the Blue Coal programs Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons, is the only organization which presents the same musicians on every program. It is a real orchestra and not just a collection of musicians.

Back in the days of high wheeled bicycles, hot toddies and gladiators, tippets, the popular conception of a musician was that of a highly anaemic individual of sedentary habits. He was generally visualized as being tastefully garbed in a flowing black cape, a battered black hat and a shoe string tie hanging somewhere between the left ear and the Adam's apple. His unshorn locks formed a nonchalant mural about a not-overly clean collar.

With the passing of the years this conception of the musicians' appearance has been pretty well dissipated.

In George Earle's orchestra many enthusiastic sportsmen and crack athletes are to be found. Earle himself is an expert bowler and ping pong player. He considers the latter game faster than tennis and has a games room in his home at East Orange, New Jersey, the scene of many a strenuous battle. He thinks that outdoor sports should be an important interest of every canable musician.

Farmer's Dollar Worth Only 54 Cents, Asserts Bowker

HORACE BOWKER

The purchasing power of the American farmer, as indicated by index numbers showing relative buying power, is now only half of what it was before the war," asserted Mr. Bowker. "This is the real problem of America." He said "Every plan of recovery is confronted with this desperate plight of the farmer."

The following table of index numbers showing the wane of the farmer's purchasing power is cited by Mr. Bowker. Contrary to popular belief, it shows that even in times of prosperity, the farmer's dollar was never worth more than a dollar. (These index numbers are based on an average of prices for 1910-1914 to make the base of 100.)

Year	Price of Farm Products	Commodity Prices Paid by Farmer	Value of Farm Dollar

I believe in the strictest economy in municipal Government expenditures, up to a point where we do not impair our Governmental structure.

I do not believe in the cutting of salaries until all other necessities have been eliminated. When the buying power has been reduced all business is bound to suffer.

I do not favor the repeal of any Veterans Legislation, now in force.

I favor full protection to the Massachusetts farmer, and dairyman producing milk and cream.

Tax burdens are too heavy and must be reduced.

I have served nine years on the Board of Selectmen in Greenfield and have produced results.
